VOL. XX.

OWINGSVILLE, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1898.

NO. 19.

LAST NOTICE.—The Fiscal Court compels me to settle with it for the taxes for 1898 by Jan. 1st, 1899. I will be compelled to levy after the 20th day of December for all taxes not paid by that time.
J. M. Atchison, Sheriff R. C.

Cut in Two.
Prices on all my hats from now on until all are sold for cash.
Mrs. Estill.

What about the railroad? Does that $20,000 bluff you?
Ready-made skirts and wraps, so cheap, at Mrs. Estill's.
Sheriff Atchison will do what he says in his "Last Notice."

See change in ads. of Vic Goodfield, Eugene Minihan and Goodfield, Minihan & Co.

Ad in THE OUTLOOK last week found Judge Goodpastor's error for him at Olympia.

All kinds of dress goods cheaper at Mrs. Estill's than any place in town.

Sheriff J. M. Atchison was in Frankfort Monday to get his quittance from the State Auditor for taxes collected in 1898.

The first-class hog-killing season last week enabled those whose hogs were sufficiently fattened to kill and salt their meat in good order.

Dick Bigstaff sold for his sister, Mrs. John D. Hinde, of St. Louis, 20 acres of the Dr. O. S. Bigstaff farm, on Flat Creek, to McClellan Hatten at $10 per acre.

Those owing taxes had better heed what Sheriff Atchison says.

The snow and wind last Saturday drove Roger Frank Laughlin and his men off of Peed's lively stable. The wind was very trying on the roof, which was only tacked down.

The Tobacco Trust wants to repeal or render ineffective the law of supply and demand. Farmers, don't let the Trust do it without the best fight you can put up.

Tobacco growers, don't neglect to attend that meeting here next Saturday. Concerted action here you may do some good and help you to get a reasonable price for your tobacco.

Only a few more of those stylish wraps at Mrs. Estill's. Great bargains at $1.50 up.

It is reported that Clob Ewing, Big Wells and several guns from Montgomery and Bourbon counties, killed over a thousand partridges on recent hunts in the Licking river bottoms near Farmers.

Old Crisp has been "in our midst" and "all over us" since his arrival Tuesday of last week. He is "powerful sarchin'" this season. He tried his skill at a driving snow-storm Saturday morning and made an unequalled success of it for a few hours.

FOR SALE.—A fine lot of first-class shingles. Apply to Henry Schwab, at L. R. Slesser's.

Thanksgiving day was an ideal one so far as the weather was concerned, being brightly sunny and with the air bracing and pleasant with exercise. The sportsmen generally had good luck and brought in lots of game, principally rabbits.

D. S. Nixon's stock barn, near Preston, burned one night last week. It contained a lot of feed and was a large but old structure. It was insured for $200. The fire is thought to have been of incendiary origin.

FOR SALE.—Privately, 41 acres of good land, situated on the headwaters of Flat Creek. Address: WILLIS G. MOORE, Stepstone, Ky.

ADAMS-DUNCAN.—Miss Lena Duncan is to be wedded at 6 o'clock p. m. Thursday, Dec. 1st, at Carlisle, to Chas. Adams, of Cincinnati. Miss Lena is a daughter of Mrs. N. Adams, formerly of this town, and also a niece of M. D. Paris. She is a pretty and charming young lady and has many friends here and in this county who will be pleased at her matrimonial happiness.

TAKEN A PARTNER.—Geo. Crouch has sold a half interest in his butcher-shop business to Oscar Chandler, son of Riley Chandler, of Upper Prickly Ash. George and Oscar are deserving young men and will build up a good business. They have the benefit of Riley Chandler's experience, as he will do the purchasing for the shop, and nothing but first-class animals will be slaughtered.

NOTICE.—Notice is hereby given that all hunting is strictly forbidden upon the fenced lands of the Roe's Run Iron Co.
Attention is called to Section 1259 of the Kentucky Statutes.
WICHESSTER DICKERSON,
Supt. R. E. I. Co.

HENRY.—Henry Schwab, who has been in the hospital for some time, was discharged yesterday. He was very weak, and his friends thought he would not be able to get on his feet. He is now at home, and his friends are very glad to see him. He is now at home, and his friends are very glad to see him.

We desire to thank the people of this neighborhood, and of Owingsville, for the kindness shown to our deceased son and brother.

MR. AND MRS. F. F. TACKETT AND FAMILY.

FISCAL COURT.—The Fiscal Court met here Tuesday and bought the Owingsville and Preston turnpike (five miles) for $1587.50, deeding the toll-house back to the company for $1. They leased the Preston & Howard's Mill turnpike until the next meeting of the Court, which will be Jan. 2. The Court failed to buy the O. & M. Sterling turnpike. Mr. Bascom asked them for value of the stock. We learn they offered him 90 cents on the face value.

Dr. L. H. Landman, of 503 W. 9th st., Cincinnati, Ohio, will be at the Corner Hotel, Owingsville, Ky., on Saturday, December 10th, remaining until Monday evening following. The best opportunity to have your eyes and glasses attended to while he is here.

References: Drs. Guggell and Walden, of this city.

TOBACCO GROWERS' ATTENTION.—The movement among the tobacco growers of Kentucky to fight the great Trust is arousing the farmers to action as they have never been moved before. County after county has held mass meetings of farmers, adopted resolutions and appointed delegates to the State convention called for the same purpose. The first call for the State meeting was for Nov. 28th at Louisville, but by common consent the date has been changed to Dec. 5th and Lexington as the place of meeting. The farmers of Bath are called to meet here next Saturday, Dec. 3d, to take action and send delegates. Let every tobacco man come and help the cause of the growers to the best of his ability. The State convention at Lexington is going to be a big and important one.

NOTICE.—I wish to testify to the fair dealing and prompt settlement made by the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co., of Newark, New Jersey, in the case of policy on the life of my son, the late Judge Wm. G. Ramsey. The proofs were made up and sent in to the company on Nov. 4th, 1898, and draft was returned in full with accrued dividends and handed to me by H. C. Guggell and O. B. Brother, agents for said company, on Nov. 18th, 1898. This speaks for itself.

JOHN A. RAMSEY.

REV. T. S. SIMRALL DIED SUDDELY.—Thomas W. Ewing received a dispatch last Thursday afternoon that his son in law Rev. T. S. Simrall had died suddenly at his home at Sweet Springs, Missouri, and that the particulars of his death would be written later. The letter had not arrived at the time this notice was written. Rev. Simrall married Mrs. Ewing's youngest daughter, Miss Dollie, here several years ago. He was pastor of the Presbyterian Church here for several years and remained in the ministry until his death. He was a scholar and highly esteemed minister. It is learned that he carried a considerable life insurance policy, which will be a great help to his widow and children. By the rules of his church he had to go wherever he was assigned and had not much opportunity to lay aside a competency out of his salary as minister among small congregations. Rev. Simrall, wife and children were here the past summer on a visit to Mr. Ewing, the first in some years. The bereavement is a sad one to the wife and children. The sorrowing family have our sincere condolences in their grief.

HAPPINESS BEGETS HAPPINESS.—AN OUTLOOK reporter took the rounds of the grocery houses Saturday night and was delighted with what he saw. The stores were crowded with our laboring population. The merchants and clerks were busy waiting on their customers. Bushel baskets, boxes and other receptacles were being filled with meat, sugar, coffee, tea, lard, flour, butter, beans, etc., with the delivery wagons darting north, south, east and west to the suburbs delivering the goods purchased.

Happiness and content were depicted on the countenances of our laboring people. Pointing to the well-filled receptacles that held their goods, they remarked that their families would have provisions enough to last a week without buying anything else. When through making their purchases they would feel down in their pockets, draw out more money and remark: "Now we will go to the dry goods stores and get the 'old woman' a dress, bonnet and wraps to keep off the cold and keep the children warm."

All were happy. The reporter could not help contrasting times now and those of two or three years ago when if a person got hold of a dollar he was afraid to let it go for fear he would fail to get another. What caused all those hard times? A few broken-down politicians who have lost their usefulness and were going to be relegated to the rear if they could not appeal to prejudices and ignorance of the masses on some new line of politics to enable them to get an office, regardless of the hardships they would bring on the people. Down with that sort of politicians and keep

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY. Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c. Feb 20

GOOD MONEY IN TURKEYS.—Thanksgiving day is past, and the census of turkeydom shows a much depleted population. The turkey is one of the most satisfactory institutions of America, bringing gladness and good cheer to the festive board and a good many useful dollars to the women in the country who take the pains to propagate it. The turkey crop is marketed at a time when the proceeds come in most handy for the winter supplies of clothing or for the knickknacks of the Christmas holiday season. While the flocks require care, turkey money is earned comparatively easy and its absence would be felt. Many a purchase of gratifying "extras" and "Christmas tricks" would have to be forgone but for the nice little sum received for the flock of turkeys. The wives of many of the most prosperous farmers engage in turkey raising from motives of thrift and from enjoyment of the light work, taking a pleasure in seeing the broods of puny little chicks grow into massive fowls worth good money and worthy to grace any table. As instances of the value of a flock of turkeys, Mrs. Geo. B. Davidson, of near Reynoldsville, sold 60 for $55; Mrs. Riley Chandler, of Upper Prickly Ash, 59 for $51.

CINCINNATI TOBACCO MARKET.—Cincinnati, O., November 25, 1898.

Week.	Year.
Offerings	711 61,655
Rejections	171 15,029
Actual Sales	540 49,626
Receipts	419 47,512
Offerings of New	95 2,6

The tobacco trade has taken a turn for the better, and the demand for the small offerings has increased to such an extent as to advance prices upon every grade. The colored and low grades have shown a very strong competition, and good red fillers have advanced until prices have proved very satisfactory to the sellers. The good grades of tobacco, which have been neglected for some time, have been in demand, and the competition, caused by some new orders in the market, has forced prices to reach the holders' views and nearly all offered were accepted. The Old tobacco being so much better than the present-outlook of the New, will, no doubt, cause the manufacturers to take up all the Old stock as fast as offered, and we surely can expect good prices for all Old goods on hand.

Considerable of the New crop is coming into the market and being sold. Prices for the best grades are running from 8 to 12 cents, while mediums are bringing from 5 to 8 cents, and the low grades from 2 to 5 cents. Some good crops have averaged nearly 8 cents. Considerable hushorn can be discovered in the largest portion of the shipments so far, but we think there are some portions of the country where the parties have saved their crops without much damage, and therefore we can expect a fair amount of good tobacco in the crop, with a surplus of low grades.

The advance in prices will no doubt increase the sales next week and we expect to get good figures.

Yule-Tide.

[By Lady Cook, nee Tennessee C. Clain.]
Again Christmas with all its delightful associations approaches, fostering domestic harmony, and repeating the glorious gospel of peace on earth and goodwill towards men.

No other period of the year is so potent as this in healing the wounds of friendship, and in warming the heart of man towards his fellows. And whosoever has British, Scandinavian, or Saxon blood in his veins, welcomes it with enthusiasm. He observes it with gladness whether it comes to him in a torrid or arctic climate or any intermediate zone. The best of good cheer is spread, his dearest friends are invited, and whatever else may grace his table, a plum pudding stuck with berry-laden holly will, if possible, be there, and a bunch of mistletoe not far off; customarily exchanging Paganism, without doubt, and handed down from heathen ancestors, who were, nevertheless, in their own time and way, good men and true.

Christmas is the Christian Saturnalia when even the strictest and most decorous countenance some degree of license. The polite leaders of our faith in the earliest days of Christianity thought it wise to graft most of the rites and ceremonies of Paganism upon the doctrines of Christ in order to make the latter popular.

Thus they caused his birth to coincide with the Roman Saturnalia which for a whole week from the 18th to the 25th of December commemorated the freedom and equality that existed during the whole of the golden reign of Saturn. We are told that long before the foundation of Rome these heathen feasts were remarkable for their universal liberty. They were permitted to ridicule their masters and to discuss every topic with freedom. Friends made presents to one another, the schools were closed, no criminals were executed, public and private animosity ceased. While they lasted war was never declared, and mirth, riot, and debauchery had full swing. During the sacrifices the priests made their offerings with uncovered heads, which was never done at any other festival. The fetters were removed from the public statues of the gods to whom every emancipated slave devoted his own. The temples were decked with holly and ivy, and other sacred evergreens, and as profusely as our own were in the last century, when Miss Jenny Simper thus complained to the "Spectator": "Our clerk, who was once a gardener, has this Christmas so overdecked the church with the greens that he has quite spoiled my prospect, inasmuch that I have scarce seen the young baronet for three weeks, and unless the greens are removed, I shall soon have little else to do in church than to say my prayers."

The holly and the mistletoe are indigenous although not peculiar to this country, and the latter, as every one knows, was pre-eminently the sacred plant of the Druids, that mystic, learned, and remarkable caste whose history remains to be written. In the Scandinavian mythology, the mistletoe was consecrated on a memorable occasion and for a most beneficent purpose, to Friga, the Northern goddess of love. For the protection of her son Balder, an oath was imposed on all things of earth, air, fire, and water, not to injure the beautiful young god. The mistletoe alone from its apparent harmlessness, was excepted, and it was with an arrow fashioned from its wood that Loki, the evil one, slew him. All nature bitterly mourned his death until Hela pitied and restored him to his mother, and from that time the fatal plant was consecrated to Friga—our native Venus, that it might henceforth become an instrument of love but never more of hate. Thus at Christmas, when the Druids were wont to cut it with golden knives, when we pass our branches with kisses, and, generally, whenever it was scarce, our maidens, not to be defrauded of their customary rites, made "kissing boughs" of evergreens ornamented with oranges and ribbons, to do duty instead.

His must be a sour heart that can view these sweet old customs with any other feeling than that of genial approbation. Hundreds of generations have enjoyed them and made merry over them, the young and the unlearned in happy and innocent thoughtlessness, while the learned and philosophic have busied themselves with the deeper import that lies beneath their popular surface. These see in them the relics of a universal religion devoted to Nature, whose origin is shrouded in the mists of remotest antiquity. They observe their close relation, not to the Saturnalia of Rome alone, but to the Egyptian Pamyia, the Bacchic and Dionysian orgies of the Greeks, the obscene festivals of India, Mesopotamia, and South America, and to the other religious mysteries in those and all the rest of the world where Nature-worship has been symbolized and corrupted by priestcraft, and its pure stream diverted into impure channels. This feeling in mankind's best emotions, not subordinating worship to gain or power, has slain in succession all the religions of the past just as it will destroy those of the present. It may be that in the cycle of religious evolution the time will come when mankind will reach the point whence they started, and their hearts will be again filled with love and reverence for all nature as the sure and universal manifestation to God of man.

Let us endeavor, then, to make the best use of Christmas, whatever its historical shortcomings, and to join in the general spirit of love and goodwill. All periods that knit the hearts of men more closely together, most worthy of human observation. Let the tables smoke with festive cheer, and hall and cottage ring with joyous greetings, and prove to the world that England is merry England still. The absent will return to gladden those at home, and the dead will be lovingly remembered. For those who cannot be present, whom necessity or distance has parted from us, there will be kindly messages, even to the ends of the earth, borne by the swift mail or swifter telegraph. Let us rejoice that it is not within the power of time or space to sever us from those we love, and that though they may be tolling through the defiles of the Khyber Pass, or brulding under an Indian or African sun, or living lonely lives in Canada or America, in Australia, or any of the numberless colonies where British industry adds Empire to Empire, yet their places will not be forgotten on Christmas Day, but affection will make the absent present. Above all, on this day beyond every other, let the poor and the outcast be amply provided for, that they may partake of the general rejoicing, and if all the remaining days of their years be wretched, let them be happy on this, the day of days, when as tradition tells, the Prince of Peace was born, to bring a message of love from Heaven to Earth.

Let us endeavor, then, to make the best use of Christmas, whatever its historical shortcomings, and to join in the general spirit of love and goodwill. All periods that knit the hearts of men more closely together,
